smorales@nmsu.edu

Sara Morales has a Bachelors in Education with a TESOL endorsement and a Masters Degree in Teaching Mathematics. She has taught in diverse settings including New Mexico, Florida, and Hawaii. Sara oversees research activities by analyzing the learning environments in K-12 classrooms among other methods. Her responsibilities include supporting professional learning and leadership development, accountability reports, dissemination of data, and writing.

Ruth Torres Castillo
Math Snacks Graduate Assistant
rutorres@nmsu.edu

Ruth Torres is a Senior Ph.D. student in the Interdisciplinary Doctorate with a concentration in Curriculum & Instruction and Computer Science at New Mexico State University (NMSU). She received a Masters Degree in Management of Information Technologies from Instituto Tecnológico de Estudios Superiores de Monterrey, Mexico in 2010 prior to joining NMSU. Her research interests include developing educational games that enhance critical thinking and help construction of knowledge rather than just the transmission of it.
